

Are you at risk for Colon Cancer?

Colon Cancer is the second leading cancer killer in the United States. The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) Estimates that there will be 130,000 new colon cancer cases with over 50,000 deaths due to colon cancer this year alone. With early detection and proper treatment, colon cancer is one of the most curable forms of cancer.

Who has an Increased Risk for Colon Cancer?

People over 50 years old, anyone with a family history of colon cancer, and people with a high fat, low fiber diet are at a much higher risk to get colon cancer.

How Can You Prevent this Disease?

Call your physician and ask about early detection options. There are painless, outpatient procedures that could save you or a loved one from this highly preventable disease. For a list of GI physicians, call Texas Endoscopy.
